

Abstract

An ECG monitoring apparatus is coupled to a conventional (e.g., plain paper) printer. The apparatus can be mechanically coupled as a removable portion of the assembly or can be integrated directly into the printer design.